Pine Needles

Miss Margeret Clute has returned to Carmel, and will attend the Monterey High School. With her from Minneapolis have come her mother, sister, and baby brother. At present they are making their come with Dr. and Mrs. C. A. McCollom.

Gould's Stage, Transfer and Auto Hire office now at old building across from Carmel Garage. Phone 605 W 5.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Harthorn have returned from a six weeks' trip, which included stops in the Yosemie, Mono Lake and Lake Tahoe.

Eleanor, Helen and Waldo Hicks are away on a fortnight's visit with friends and relatives in the bay cities.

R. A. Peckham and wife have arrived at Thompson, Iowa, the home of the former's parents, whom he has not seen for many years. They will be away about two months.

Have you subscribed for the Pine Cone? Three months for 40 cents.

Miss Margaret Davis, who spent several months here this summer, is now visiting friends in Vancouver, B. C., but expects to return to Carmel.

The Reading Circle has received from Miss Ida M. Curtis a collection of 250 copies of the illustrations of Dickens' works by contemporary artists.

Mrs. E. E. Lonabaugh and party are expected here from Sheridan, Wyo., about October 1. They will occupy a large house either here or at Pebble Beach, and it is probable that Mrs. Lonabaugh will let contracts for the erection of her home here.

L. S. Slevin, Notary Public.

Contained in a bottle, the sad sea waves at Carmel beach, have cast up a note which reads: "L. Wagner, Born 1855, 1422 13 st., Sacramento; Gunter." What do you make of it?

Mr. and Mrs. Phil K. Gordon will leave for San Francisco on the 15th. They sail for Honolulu and the Orient on October 6. The return home will be made via Australia, in March.

The success of the Dunsany plays at the Forest Theatre has prompted the suggestion that two of the same author's plays be put on at Arts and Crafts Hall this winter—say between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

BUILDING

Children Under 17 Must Attend School

Many employers are unacquainted with the new State Part-Time Education law, and a circular, giving briefly the provisions of the law has been prepared for circulation by the High School authorities.

The essential provisions are that all employees under 17 years old attend school four hours a week; the school must between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.; every employer of a person must have a work permit and a certificate of enrollment. Failure to comply with the law subjects the employer to fine or possible imprisonment. Employels must have the certificate within five days after the opening of school.

STEVENSON AT CARMEL.

Forgotten Article on an Indian Service at the Old Mission Proves a Rare Find.

To find a forgotten article from the pen of Robert Louis Stevenson is an event these days. Scribner's Magazine for August contains one. It was rescued from an old California newspaper file and dates back to the time Stevenson was living at Monterey. "San Carlos Day" is the title. We quote:

"I heard the old Indians singing nfass. That was a new experience and one, I think, well worth hearing. There was the old man who led, and the women who so worthily followed. It was like a voice out of the past. They sang by tradition, from the teaching of early missionaries long since turned to clay. King Pandion he is dead. All your friends are lapped in clay.

"And still in the roofless church you may hear the old music. Padre Casanove will, I am sure, be the first to pardon and understand me, when I say that the old Gregorian singing preached a sermon more eloquent than his own. Peace on earth, good will to men, so it seemed to me to say; and to me, as a Barbarian, who hears on all sides evil speech and the roughest bywords about the Indian race, to hear Carmel Indians sing their Latin words with so good a pronunciation and give out these ancient European chants with familiarity and fervor, suggested new and pleasant reflections. Here was an old, medieval civilization, and your old primeval barbarian, hand in hand, the one devoutly following the other. And I could not help thinking that if there had been more priests and fewer land sharks and Indian agents, there would have been happier days for a considerable number of human bipeds in your American continent.

"I began by admitting that I was a barbarian. Now, that I have proved it, I had better pause. That was how it struck the stranger. A fine old church, a fine old race, both brutally neglected; a survival, a memory and a ruin. The United States Mint can coin many million dollar pieces, but not make a single Indian; and when Carmel Church is in the dust, not all the wealth of all the states and territories can replace what has been lost."

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA, CAL.

SEPTEMBER 2, 1920

The Woodland Dancers

Written for the Pine Cone

To city ears there is a decided lure in the combination of two such terms as "Woodland Dancers" and Forest Theatre.

In consequence, and despite the lateness of the season, there was a goodly contingent of visitors as well as interested friends to see the presentation of Miss Jeannette Hoagland and her dancers on August 21.

With the remembrance of the rarely effective stage settings of the Dunsany plays in mind, there was a certain fear of anti-climax in any subsequent effort in that direction.

Therefore, when the darkness of the indicated proscenium between the tall and stately tree sentinals gave way to soft and diffused lighting, the wisdom of a complete change of mise en scene was apparent. There was no stage or stage scenery to limit or confine.

A veritable sylvan glade lay revealed, with nothing but the stars overhead, and a soft carpet as of turf and pine needles beneath, for the bare feet of the dancers.

Nature herself supplied the setting, deftly aided and abotted by cunningly placed trees and shrubs through and behind which the dancers wove in and out with natural and charming effect.

With no violation to the imagination, it was Arcadian; even to the storied pool in which Narcissus gazed upon his mirrored beauty. Narcissus and Echo in this case being gracefully impefsonated by Virginia and Christine Burton.

That Miss Hoagland brings fantasy, imagination and skill to her work was evident both from the setting and the program showing the work of her pupils, all of which was done with nicety and grace.

From the first dance, in which she was the fairy sprite of the forest, across whose path the timest children flitted and drifted as white-winged fairies—to the final number, in which she impersonated the wonderful Luna Moth, Miss Hoagland showed poetic feeling and skillful abandon to the moods of nature. An effective number was her dance of a Greek Boy at Play with a shining metal ball, the background being supplied by seven Grecian maidens, posturing as if on classic frieze or ancient jar.

The Minuet, Gypsy and solo dances of the pupils were well done, the invocation to Krishna by Miss Margaret Curtis being especially good in conception.

The Del Monte Quartette supplied the incidental music and colaborated most happily with the dancers.

It is the pride and boast of Carmel that it has a plethora of talent, and perhaps better than most places it obeys the Emersonian dictum that each man gave the best of himself to the communal good.

Like poets, dancers are born—not made, and Miss Hoagland has natural grace and rythmic spontaneity, together with the rarer gift of improvisation. One can easily imagine for her a future equal to that of many dancers of wide repute, given equal opportunity and experience.

Why Not Resume?

The first shipbuilding in California was done on Carmel River, near Monterey, in 1775, by Lieutenant Ayala. The "ship" was called a cayuco, or dugout, and was made from the trunk of a redwood. It was used in the first survey of San Francisco Bay, broke from its moorings and was wrecked below the site of the Cliff House, near where the Dutch windmill stands.
